Gen. Grant on His Muscle.

While at West Point, Grant was "run on" by the older scholars, according to the custom of that institution. He endured a good deal without resentment, until, one day, being on mock parade, he was insulted by the captain of the company, when he stepped from the ranks, threw off his jacket, and challenged the captain to fight. Abbott tells the story as follows:

Such a challenge could not be declined; all the company looked eagerly on; the captain soon succumbed beneath the sturdy and swift falling blows of Grant, and cried for quarter. He had been soundly whipped before his pride would permit him to yield.

The young champion not at all fatigued, and showing no excitement over his victory, turned to the lieutenant, and said very blandly to him:

"It is now, lieutenant, your turn. Perhaps you would like to try to revenge the captain. I shall be happy to meet you."

The lieutenant, who had taken an active part in the insolent joke upon the young cadet, could not in honor refuse. To have shown a coward's discretion would have exposed him to the endless jeers of his comrades. Grant made short work of him, and gave him a very thorough thrashing.

He then, with apparently as much composure as if he had been attending to ordinary duties, turned to his companions in line and said:

"Who comes next? I want peace, but I am willing to fight the whole company, one by one, if that is necessary to gain peace."

His comrades now greeted him with three enthusiastic cheers. They came forward tumultuously, and shook him by the hand, declaring that one possessing so much pluck should no longer be subjected to their annoyance. It was in reference to this offer to fight the whole company that he received the nickname of "Company Grant." This name he retained until on a memorable occasion he was charged to surrender Grant.

THE ANNUAL COST OF A NATION'S LIQUOR.—The New York Examiner has compiled a curious table, comparing the cost of liquor sold by retail in this country during one year. Mr. Wells, in his report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1867, shows that the cost of liquor to the consumers, that is the value of the retail liquor trade, "as deduced from the receipts of internal revenue," reaches the sum of $1,483,491,865, that is, forty-three dollars for every man, woman and child in the country. It is more than one-eighth of the entire annual sales of the merchandise of the country, more than the entire product of the precious metals from all that region west of the Rocky Mountains for twenty years, which is estimated by J. Ross Browne at $1,155,000,000. It is nearly ten times the value of all the church property of the United States, given in 1850 by the census as $171,398,532. It is more than one-half the national debt.

"Father, I think you told a fib in the pulpit to-day, said a little son of a clergyman."

"Why, what do you mean?"

"You said, 'One word more and I have done. Then you went on and said a great many more words. The people expected you'd leave off, 'cause you'd promised them. But you didn't and kept on preaching a long while after the time was up.'"

"A western paper cruelly says: 'Our member in Congress has made speeches—one of his best was written for him by a graduate of this office, and the matter and delivery do credit to both parties.'"

"A Detroit man thought he did a shrewd thing when he put his property in his wife's name. But he is of a different opinion since his wife died, leaving a will which makes him penniless unless he marries his servant girl."

"The little son of a Pittsfield clergyman, seeing his mother making biscuits on Sunday for supper, asked her if it wasn't wicked to work? Being answered in the affirmative the three year old rejoined, 'Oo'll catch it when 'oo get to heaven.'"

"A rather unusual incident occurred in the New York Superior Court on Wednesday. A juror was drawn in a case that took nearly the whole day to try, and when the jurors had retired for deliberation, eleven of the number learned that their twelfth comrade could not understand a word of English. He answered 'Yaw,' however, in giving his verdict."

"A gentleman having engaged a bricklayer to make some repairs in his cellar, ordered the ale to be removed before the bricklayer commenced his work. 'Oh, I'm not afraid of a barrel of ale,' said the bricklayer. 'I presume not,' said the gentleman, 'but I think a barrel of ale would run at your approach.'"

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN DENTISTRY.

THE ATTENTION OF THE PUBLIC IS CALLED TO A GREAT DISCOVERY IN DENTISTRY.

THE GREAT ADVANCE STEP EVER MADE IN THE ART.

The main difficulty in wearing artificial teeth is, they do not hold in their place firmly enough, and add to this the annoyance of food getting under the plate while eating. I have discovered a method of so constructing the plate, on which the teeth are set, that they will not start or drop while eating or speaking, neither will any particles of food get under the plate, no matter what the condition of the mouth is, which is not true of any method hitherto used.

I have secured Letters Patent for the United States, England and France.

The improvement is not in material, but in the construction, which gives the atmospheric pressure on the entire plate.

I have sold the exclusive of said improvement to Dr. L. Gilman, of the Counties of Franklin, Washington, Chittenden, Lamoille and Grand Isle. Those wishing to avail themselves of such improvement, will call on

THE AMERICAN COOKING STOVE IN COURT.

An adjourned term of the Circuit Court of the United States, for the Northern District of New York, in the second circuit held at the City Hall, in the city of Albany, the 25th day of January, in the year of our Lord 1868.

PRESENT: The Hon. NATHAN K. HALE, Judge.

JACOB H. SHEAR & JOSEPH PACKARD, vs. GEO. B. BULL & JOHN M. ROCKWELL.

It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed, that a perpetual injunction be issued in this suit against the defendants, restraining them from further infringement of said Patent, No. 51,406, dated Dec. 3rd, 1865, for improvement in cooking stoves, pursuant to and in accordance with the prayer of the Bill of Complaint.

Signed A. A. Bowen, Clerk.

The above was instituted for infringement of the Patent securing the manner of fitting the ash pan in the hearth of the American Cooking Stove, and for the combination of the hinged ash pan. We have repeatedly cautioned the public against selling or using stoves with these improvements not manufactured by us. All persons now selling or using stoves with these improvements in violation of the above injunction, without license from us, will be liable to fine and imprisonment. SHEAR, PACKARD & CO., 205-9m. Albany, N. Y.
